

Landry Major

Landry Major is an American artist based in Los Angeles, California. Her imagery explores the ideas of home, culture and our relationship to the land and animals that we steward. In a world that has become more virtual and digital, her work is a reminder of a more visceral and simple life. Landry's striking silver gelatin and platinum palladium prints can be found in both public and private collections. Landry has won honors from Critical Mass, Communications Arts, and Lurzer's Archive. Her work has been seen in The New York Times, and Time Magazine.
