BIO

An emerging fine art photographer, Bryan combines emotive landscape photography in both still and animated formats with fanciful narratives to capture the raw beauty of nature and explore the depth of human experience. He studied darkroom and film photography at the University of Oregon; received his BA in Biology from Reed College, where he was the photojournalist for The Quest, the school newspaper; and earned his MS in Biology from Florida State University.

Bryan's art has been exhibited in galleries across the United States, including Washington, Oregon, Colorado, Missouri, and Ohio. He lives on a cliff overlooking Puget Sound in Washington state, USA, where inspiration is as close as his back yard.
