ARTIST STATEMENT

In my current work, I am investigating the phenomena of subtle-energetic bodies and the unseen forces that flow all around us. I am able to sense a person's aura and visualize their emotions and thought forms as symbolic phenomena, flowing shapes, and energetic gestures. My markmaking traces thoughtforms, energy patterns, and the rhythms of nature, drawing from both my personal subconscious and the collective consciousness. I manifest visionary imagery in which the energetic body and its aura appear as fields of thoughtforms, symbols, and memories, with color expressing emotional states. This work is in conversation with the patterns of nature and cosmic cycles. The spaces within my paintings are psychological, populated with anthropomorphized natural forms and metaphysical figures that convey themes of transformation and transcendence.

Composed in layers of oil, acrylic, and pastel, my process is intuitive, balancing control of materials with allowing them to flow, stain, and blend in unpredictable ways. With the canvas on the floor, I pour and guide pigments, observing forms emerge from puddles, stains, and shifting transparencies as a kind of visual scrying. Figures, symbols, flowers, and feminine archetypes surface like memory fragments or dream images. As I work, I open myself to divine connection and messages from the spirit world—a collaboration with my creative spirit guides and art ancestors. Each painting carries a magical, energetic resonance, shaped through ritual, intuition, and dialogue with my materials.

I draw from historical art periods, guided by both conceptual and process-based inspiration from Abstract Expressionism, Surrealism, Symbolism, Futurism, Fauvism, and Orphism, as well as artists such as af Klint, Carrington, Tanning, Balla, Rodin, and Frankenthaler. My work blends mythology, religious iconography, and Jungian archetypes into layered forms and luminous energies, translating the subconscious and unseen into my visual language.

For me, painting is not a response—it is a transformative experience, completed in the encounter with the viewer. My research is guided by a deep curiosity about color and energy, the vastness of the universe, vibrational resonance, interconnection with nature, and the unseen realms within and around us. Ultimately, my work is an act of self-realization: a way to trace my soul's journey, explore my interconnections between body, mind, nature, and cosmos, and to open portals to the unseen.
